

RSCC Newsletter (Late Edition)

Good afternoon, all. I have a few snippets of news to share with you and a little question.

First of all, the end of season is looming large, and our official End of Season Day is to be on Thursday 26th of September. We aren't planning anything special, as far as playing goes it will be just like an ordinary Club Afternoon with an extended tea and cakes session whilst we review the season (at a cost of £2 each).

Secondly, we shall be holding Coffee Mornings at 10.00am at The Olive Tree at Tate's on the first Thursday of the month; the first one will be held on Thursday 3rd of October.

Thirdly, although the official end of the season will be on the 26th of September, we are thinking that it might be possible to extend playing time into October if the weather is kind to us. I must emphasise that this is not a done deal; there are one or two matters to consider before October play becomes a fact. I shall keep you informed.

Now for the Question. Traditionally we have had a Christmas Lunch; the committee were wondering whether or not members really wanted one. Well, would you like to have a Christmas Lunch? This is something that can be discussed at the End of Season bash, or you could reply to this letter letting me know your views.

Regarding the End of Season bash, It would be great to see you all, whether or not you are currently able to play. At least come to the bunfight and have a natter over a cup of tea and a slice.

Hoping to see you soon

Roger
